MSC Drama Department To Conduct Tryouts

Tryouts will be held from 2 to 5 p.m., Thursday, January 28, for the drama department's third production, Christopher Fry's "The Lady's Not for Burning." Students who wish to try out for the play but cannot attend the Thursday session should contact instructor Milton Brietzke for a private reading.

Scripts are available in the College library with tryout passages marked.

"The Lady's Not for Burning" is a poetic comedy that has a supernatural feeling about it. All drama productions this year are part of the theme "Year of the Those Familiar Spirits."

The story takes place near the fifteenth century although the mood could be representative of any century. The play deals with a disillusioned soldier who wishes he could die and leave a hostile world. The other side of life is represented by a young girl who is accused of witchcraft but wants to live. Through their actions and thoughts the play offers many overtones for a contemporary audience.

The play has 11 characters with roles for eight men and three women. All characters provide interesting and vital roles in the play.

"The Lady's Not for Burning" will open March 19 and run through March 22.

Art Center Features Works by Benton

Thirty-nine drawings by Thomas Hart Benton are currently being displayed at the Spiva Art Center. The show will end January 21.

From the 135 drawings featured in the 1968 publication "Benton's Drawings," 39 original drawings are being shown in this exhibition. Selected for their breadth of subject matter and style, these 39 drawings provide a brief synopsis of the people and events in life that concern Thomas Benton.

Benton's home town, Neosho, Missouri, organized a homecoming for him in May of 1962. Distinguished Missourians including former President Harry S. Truman and Mrs. Truman attended the event. The event was recognition that the truth, as expressed in the artist's drawings and paintings, draws its strength and assurance from the native soil.

Nurses Hear Talk On Drugs

Donald H. Ashton, representative of the Smith, Kline and French Laboratories, was guest speaker at the Eighth District MSC Student Nurses' Association meeting on December 17.

Ashton lectured on drug abuse. He discussed the most commonly used narcotics, their effects, prime users, applicable laws and the public and nurses' responsibility in drug use. A question and answer session followed.

Ashton concluded the program with a demonstration of "marijuana odor" in order to alert nurses to an olfactory awareness of the presence of the drug.

The program for the next regular meeting of the association will include the second in a series of films entitled "The Witch Doctor," concerning esoteric African medical practices.

As Thomas Hart Benton, has stated, "I now know there is no such thing as failure in the pursuit of art. Merely to survive in that pursuit is a success. Pictures may fail to please, movements may fail to survive, but the artist has rewards anyhow. He may lose his public and his market and still get full compensation for his efforts. Quite apart from the public values of art those which give it signifi-cance in the social history of a people — the act of artistic creation has its own psychological payoff, and a very considerable one. The rewards of art, for the artist himself, are concomitants of its practice. They lie in the lifeheightening acuteness of his everyday occupational experiences. The only way an artist can personally fail is to quit

The Benton exhibit opened Tuesday night with a lecture in the gallery by artist Charles Banks Wilson. Wilson a personal friend of Benton, discussed the artist's works and played tapes of a Benton discussion on the importance of art.

Auto Tech Repairs Cars For Students

Any student desiring work done on his car, including a tune-up, overhaul, wheel alignment or almost anything concerning the mechanics of a car, can contact Dwight Mason at the auto tech building just east of the Barn Theatre. The only cost is for parts that have to be bought.

There are currently 51 students enrolled in the auto tech program, according to Mason. With the completion of the new 70x100 foot technical building to be built in February, he hopes to increase the number of students to 80.

Mason commented that many women have shown an interest in a general mechanics course. He hopes to provide such a course in next fall's curriculum.

Students graduating from the auto tech program have little trouble finding jobs, according to Mason. The average wage of the graduate is around $175 per week. They have a field of over 1,000 different job titles to choose from.

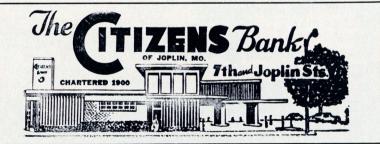

The Auto Tech Club recently held a bean feed to finance a trip to Kansas City to tour the auto industry plants.
